BROTHER & SISTER MARRY!

FAMILY AFFAIR: Pat and Paul Mevel were wed with the blessings of their parents.

By JOHN STONE

Brother and sister Paul and Pat Mevel married with the blessing of their parents and government officials who overlooked a law that forbids the marriage of siblings and hitched them in a civil ceremony on May 16!

Now Mevel, 19, and his 17-year-old bride are eager to have "at least six children and start the family we've wanted since we were kids ourselves."

"This is my dream come true," said Mrs. Mevel, who will graduate from high school in Limoges, France, after she completes a math class later this summer. "Paul and I have been in love since we were 5 or 6 years old but hate everything is official. Some people don't approve of us, of course, but that's to be expected.

"When a man and a woman love each other as much as we do who cares what other people think? Paul and I are happy and that's all that counts."

The Mevels' decision to marry in the face of legal obstacles and sharp public criticism didn't come easy.

Paul Mevel said that he and his sister might never have found the courage to tie the knot if their parents hadn't stood behind them with their unconditional love and support.

"Mom and Dad knew how close Pat and I were but they never expected us to get married," he explained. "It was only when we told them what we wanted to do they were angry and shocked but said they would stand by us no matter what.

"The legal hurdles were nothing to sniff at but Dad knows a lot of people and pulled every string in the book. We got our marriage license on May 14 and exchanged vows in a civil ceremony on May 16.

"Both Pat and I would have preferred a big church wedding but we figured it was best to keep everything low-key.

"All we want to do now is start our own family and get on with our lives. We've got a small apartment and I make good money driving a taxi.

"That's a start."

Officials refused to comment on the marriage and the newlyweds' parents were home too shaken to meet with the press, either. In a prepared statement they said: "We love our son and daughter and support them in this endeavor. We're also looking forward to any grandchildren their marriage might bring us."

Fat guys' fib

A recent study disclosed that nearly a third of overweight Americans do not think they're overweight, and men especially refuse to admit they have a ballooning tummy.

Research shows 34 percent of U.S. adults ARE overweight, but 31 percent of those feel they are "at about the right weight."

World's smallest woman measures a microscopic 20 inches from head to toe

Teensy-weensy gal looks like a little girl — but she's 33 YEARS OLD!

by BEATRICE OEXTER
Correspondent

Curvy Karsi Pauw is 33 years old and has a grown woman's body — but the amazing gal stands only 20 inches tall!

The Indonesian woman is so small she still wears baby clothes and has to use a high chair to sit at the dinner table. She's dwarfed by her 2-year old niece, who weighs six more pounds than she does.

"I have to be careful to eyeballs and I need a little help doing chores, otherwise I lead a pretty normal life," says the gutsy midget, a spinster who is the world's smallest living woman.

"I'm just grateful that my health is good and that I have a loving family."

When Karsi was born in 1908, she weighed 4 pounds, 3 ounces.

Over the years since then she has gained less than 16 pounds, although her body has matured like an ordinary female's.

The young midget lives with a married sister in Banten, Indonesia, not far from the capital of Jakarta.

She earns her keep by caring for her nephew, Saleh, 8, and her niece Dalia, 2, and by cleaning house for her relatives.

"Babysitting is rewarding for me, but it's not always easy," Karsi admits. "I can't lift the baby, so I have to get Saleh to help me. And if Dalia throws a tantrum, I have to run and hide. She hit me so hard one time that she broke my arm."

Ordinary activities can be dangerous for Karsi because she is so tiny. She can't go out alone because neighborhood children torment her and cats and dogs attack her in the streets. When she goes to the marketplace or occupies her family to the movies, tiny Karsi has to be carried.

Otherwise the 20-inch mini-maid could be trampled underfoot because no one can see her in the crowd.

"But the hardest thing about being shy size is that people don't take me seriously," says Karsi, who wears lacy pink dresses and tiny bronze shoes.

"They think I'm a baby, and then when they find out I'm a mature

"I HAVE to be careful in crowds," says midget Karsi Pauw. The 33-year-old Indonesian woman stands only 20 inches tall.

Fat-cat politicians ax crippled vet's benefits!

In a shameful move to cut the deficit, callous politicians cut off disability payments to aging Chauncey "Chap" Corwin — a veteran who was brain damaged when he was gassed in World War I!

By DICK DONOVAN

And Joyce Ackerman, a big-hearted woman who has cared for the crippled doughboy for more than 20 years, doesn't know how to give him the bad news.

"I haven't told him yet," she said. "How can I tell him, 'Chap, they've stopped your veteran's payments!' It would be devastating."

Joyce and her late husband — Chap's cousin — took him into their Fredericksburg, Va., home after finding him in a Florida institution in the late 1960s.

Chap — his age is said to be at least 100 — unavoidably had to move into a nursing home. But because of his worsening condition, he now lives in a private home where only other patient is a century-old World War I veteran.

"When Chap came to us, all he had was a little bag of change — nickels and dimes. He was afraid to spend it. He had lost everything else. It was all he had.

"His $1,000 check wasn't enough to pay for his nursing home care," Joyce said.

"He had to supplement it with the money he managed to save since I've cared for him."

So, to cut the budget, Chap — because he is classified "uncompetent" — has had his disability payments cut off.

But the colonel who lives by the private hates with him still gets his disability check every month. He isn't classified incompetent, he's just old.

"It isn't fair," Joyce declared. "Chap is more competent than the colonel. He can do a lot of things for himself. The colonel can't."

There is, however, a class action suit is challenging the constitutionality of the cutbacks.

"The cutbacks were approved as part of the omnibus budget act passed last year," explained Jeanne D'Amours, one of the attorneys handling the suit.

"It's a classic case of Congress doing something without really thinking the effect is," she said.

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN HELP

Lawmakers were rather slow about a terrible mistake in cutting off disability payments to vet with like Chap Corwin, and most want to correct it. But that will be a difficult task because it's buried in the budget bill. However, writing to your congressman may give him the courage and the incentive to get the job done.

BIGHEARTED Joyce Ackerman has looked after Chauncey Corwin for more than 20 years. The brain-damaged ex-doughboy has had his disability payments cut off.

Tokyo tycoon vows to torch $123 million masterpieces when he dies

By LAUREL BOWIE

Moneybags businessman Sadao Omori owns four of the world's most precious paintings, worth a whopping $123.6 million. And when he dies, the airhead art buff plans to take his masterpieces with him — by burning them to a crisp!

The Japanese fat cat wants his prize paintings laid out beside him in his coffin when he goes — and then wants the whole kit and caboodle cremated.

"They're mine, and I can send them up in flames if I want to," insists dingbat Sadao, 52.

"My family doesn't give a damn about art anyway. They wouldn't know a Picasso from a finger painting, and there's no reason for me to leave my treasures to a bunch of idiots."

But outraged art nuts are up in arms over the Tokyo tycoon's scheme to incinerate world-renowned works by Rubens, Rembrandt, Goya and Matisse.

"Paintings like these belong to future generations, and nobody has the right to destroy them," fumed British art critic Carl Gish. "To even think of throwing them into a fire is enough to make a real art lover's blood run cold."

High-rolling Sadao stalked out a fortune for the classy canvases at art auctions in London and Paris two years ago.

"I never knew much about art, but I like paintings — so I just went out and bought the ones I thought were the prettiest," said the high-rolling fishing company boss.

Scatterbrained Sadao decided to be cremated with his paintings after reading about a similar scheme by fellow Japanese tycoon Ryoei Saito.

Saito told reporters he planned to drag a $78 million Renoir and an $82 million Van Gogh into the Gary Larsons with him when he bought the farm — then later admitted he was only joking.

But knucklebrained Sadao says he's not kidding. "I bought these paintings and they're mine," he says. "There's no way I'm going to leave them for a bunch of nitwits to store up when I can take them with me for all eternity."

SPARED: In a similar ripoff scheme, fellow Japanese businessman Ryoei Saito had threatened to torch Van Gogh's Dr. Gachet, left, and Renoir's Au Moulin de la Galette, above, but later admitted he was only kidding.

EGYPTIAN PHARAOH FLEW ON ALIEN SPACESHIP!

HUGE FLEET of spaceships that looked like "wheels of fire" descended upon the Egyptian kingdom of Pharaoh Thutmose III.

By MICHAEL PHILIPS
Staff writer

An Egyptian pharaoh witnessed a huge fleet of UFOs hovering above the desert sands more than 3,400 years ago — and the ruler even boarded one of the alien spacecraft and visited the stars, say experts.

Incredibly, translations of hieroglyphic records of ancient Egypt reveal that Thutmose III, who reigned 15 centuries before the birth of Christ, first saw a UFO one winter morning around the year 1482 B.C.

Brad Steiger, renowned UFO expert and author, explained: "The intriguing details from the hieroglyphics describe the UFO as 'a circle of fire.' Moreover, the object emitted no sound, as indicated by the hieroglyphics it had no voice."

The hieroglyphics records go on to say, 'After some days had passed, these things became more numerous in the skies than ever,'" pen-twisted Steiger.

"The UFOs in the fleet were extremely bright in color, more than the brightness of the sun, and were relatively small, about 16 feet in diameter," he said.

"They were probably spacecraft from a mother ship."

Incredibly, Thutmose III was taken aboard one of the alien spacecraft, said UFO expert and biblical scholar Zecharia Sitchin, author of the book The Stairway to Heaven.

The ancient records reveal that Thutmose "flew up to the sky" and learned this "mysterious ways to heaven."

"Without a doubt, that passage describes a trip into space.

"Thutmose III was transported by space shuttle to a space station in orbit above the Earth," said Sitchin.

"The report of Thutmose proves that ancient astronauts visited Earth long ago."

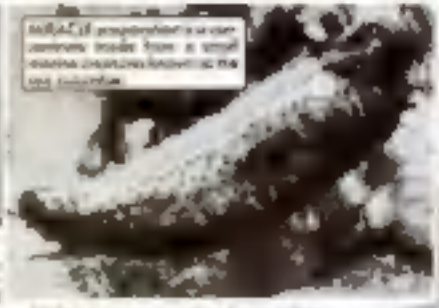
NEW DISCOVERY!

Eases the agony of Arthritis with a new non-prescription pill!

HARRY Melinoff, 83, uses SeaCure to ease aching joints. Ready to use cucumber preparation.

An astonishing new food concentrate eases the agony of arthritis in up to 65 percent of patients who try it, says top arthritis specialist.



SeaCure eases pain so much that Harry Melinoff says he no longer needs pain medication now that she's taking new cucumber concentration.

By Harry Weber

The product, called SeaCure, is derived from a starfish-like marine animal, the sea cucumber, and is now available without a prescription.

Nobody knows how the preparation works. But studies conducted in Australia and America have shown them to be safe and surprisingly effective in easing the pain of rheumatoid arthritis and osteoarthritis, two of the most devastating forms of joint disease.

"The product is definitely worth a try," said Dr. Mort Schwartzberg, director of rheumatology at Jersey Shores Medical Center in Neptune, N.J.

"It has few if any side effects. It's nontoxic. It's available without prescription. And tests show that it can have a beneficial effect on relieving the symptoms of rheumatoid arthritis and osteoarthritis.

"I would like to see more rigorous studies to isolate the active ingredient. Mean while, it's nice to have something so promising and safe for arthritis patients to try.

"I recommend it to my own patients."

In an eye-opening study, Dr. Schwartzberg found that seven of 13 or 54 percent of patients with osteoarthritis reported a reduction of pain and greater freedom of movement after using SeaCure.

Seven of 11 or 64 percent of patients with rheumatoid arthritis said the ally stressed in a study conducted by orthotic specialist Michael McPhillips, a member of Great Britain's prestigious Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons.

The surgeon is now in private practice in Brisbane, Australia — where SeaCure has been available for years.

Dr. McPhillips found that 10 of 22 patients with rheumatic disease reported better mobility and relieved pain after they started taking SeaCure along with the prescription medications they were already using.

"Many of the patients were satisfied that there was a significant improvement in their arthritic symptoms," said Dr. McPhillips. "And while I would not suggest that it replace conventional medications, it may be used in addition to those with good effect and seemingly with a low risk of adverse reactions.

"I conducted the study to prove that the product was bogus but I simply couldn't do it," he continued.

"It does seem to have a beneficial effect on many patients and in my opinion it is something every arthritis sufferer ought do well to try."

SeaCure is actually nothing more than a highly concentrated form of the sea cucumber, a marine animal that has been eaten throughout the South Pacific for hundreds of years.

Australia's Pacific Pharmaceuticals began to market the preparation after a relative of director Gus Grant found that eating a soup made from sea cucumber relieved the symptoms of his arthritis.

In the United States, arthritis victim Eleanor Batstic suffered crippling arthritis in her fingers and knees until she saw an advertisement for the product and tried it.

"After a severe mishap I was taken off prescription medications as I had nothing for my arthritis," said Mrs. Batstic of Gallup, Nebr.

"The pain in my knees and fingers was so bad that I could hardly walk or hold anything in my hands. After taking SeaCure the pain almost vanished.

"I would recommend it to anyone who suffers from arthritis pain."

Joanne Norwood of West Palm Beach, Fla., had such a severe case of arthritis that she couldn't lift groceries or turn over in bed.

"SeaCure has changed my life," she said. "After taking it for eight months I'm actually bowling with a 10-pound ball."

Daphne Harper of Brooklyn, N.Y., tried marijuana and five other prescription medications for her arthritis and even had surgery on one of her crippled knees.

But she remained in agony until she started using SeaCure.

"It seems hard to believe but I am no longer suffering," said Miss Harper. "The stiffness in my knees is gone. I feel great."

Doctors told Mary Fleth of Toms River, N.J., that she would have to take pain pills and have cortisone injections for the rest of her life just to be able to walk.

She tried SeaCure with some misgivings.

"I started feeling better in just four days," she continued. "I haven't had a cortisone injection in over a month.

"But the most significant change in my life is the total cessation of pain, medication and reliance of arthritic medications from 800 milligrams to 81 milligrams. I plan to make SeaCure a daily part of my life."

Arthritis victim Harry Melinoff, 83, of Chesterton, N.J., added: "I've been suffering for many years with pain and stiffness in my legs and knees and had to give up walking. After taking SeaCure I'm able to ride a bike and walk two to three miles every day without pain. I can't live without it."

Psychic reads ANIMAL'S mind for judge!

Hypnotized dog's testimony nails killer

By RICK TRACY

For the first time in history, sensational eyewitness testimony of an animal has resulted in the murder conviction of a cold-blooded killer.

Using hypnosis and a free association technique, a well-known animal psychic, known only as Alejandro, was able to get the killer's pet dog to reveal the hidden content of his mind.

"You had to see it to believe it," said prosecutor Juan Jose Marco. "The psychic was able to read the dog's mind and translate it to the judge."

Cops had suspected Gerardo Alvarez gunned down his wife, Maria, in their home on the outskirts of Madrid, Spain, but they couldn't prove it.

"We had the bullet that was fired into her brain at close range. There were no signs of forced entry at their home and we knew the couple had marital problems," said prosecutor Marco.

Gerardo denied being in the house when his wife was killed. He said he was working late at his real estate office and police couldn't prove otherwise.

Out of desperation, police asked Alejandro to work his psychic magic on the couple's mongrel, Toto.

Alejandro normally uses his psychic skills with zoos and circuses to calm animals down, but has never been used in criminal matters.

"Some people have a special communicate with them under the right conditions," he told a newspaper reporter. "I am so gifted.

"It was obvious the dog had undergone a severe painful emotional experience," Alejandro said. "The animal had typical neurotic symptoms of anxiety and depression."

After spending the better part of a day psychoanalyzing the dog, Alejandro had a complete picture of what happened in the couple's living room that tragic night.

"That night gave us a blow-by-blow account of the murder," said Alejandro. "The dog bit Gerardo on the ankle and leg trying to protect Maria. The bite marks were where the dog said they would be. And Toto showed police where the murder weapon was buried.

"Only the killer and an accomplice would have known that information."

Alejandro then went into a trance and was able to see through the dog's eyes. He described the murder scene in detail.

"Toto told me Gerardo shot Maria in the head with a gun. Toto was hiding under the bed and saw everything. The couple argued and Gerardo slapped her in the mouth. That riled the dog. Toto, who was more Maria's pet than Gerardo's. The dog bit Gerardo on the ankle. Gerardo kicked the pooch into a corner.

When Maria screamed at Gerardo for hitting the dog, the enraged hubby grabbed a pistol from a desk drawer and shot Maria in the head. Gerardo didn't know the dog was following him when he buried the murder weapon beside a road about five miles from their home and then covered the spot.

The judge sentenced Gerardo to death. Gerardo's lawyer said he definitely will appeal the conviction and sentence.

HYPNOTISM technique enabled famous animal psychic Alejandro to read a mutt's mind and convict a killer in court with the pet's testimony.

Weirdo gets his kicks by slicing underwear off sleeping men!

By FRED WRIGHT

Police say they may have caught a creepy prowler suspected of breaking into more than 30 Cleveland-area residences where he sliced the underwear off sleeping men so he could fondle them.

The suspect deftly used a razor-blade, according to Willoughby, Ohio, Police Lt. Kenneth Eberle, and some victims never knew their underwear had been sliced.

He said no victim was ever cut by the suspect's razor. [illegible] suspect who got away [illegible] make up and struggle with the [illegible] wear. He sliced it off silently for sexual gratification," Lt. Eberle claimed.

All victims were male. "If the apartment had a female or an elderly couple, he'd leave [illegible] he was looking for younger men.

"He didn't get on with the intent to rape. He went in with the thought to fondle a male," Lt. Eberle claimed.

Teacher in hot water for paddling 47 kids

Math teacher Keith Davis is an old-fashioned spare-the-rod-and-spoil-the-child educator who we said when 47 students returned late from recess he spanked all of them.

Each kid got a whack on the rear end with a paddle by Davis, 36, who was later suspended for a week without pay.

Davis was serving as acting principal at Greenville, Ala., High School when he told the students to go outside during recess.

The 47 students remained outside after the bell sounded for classes, said Schools Superintendent Weldon Parrish. Davis admitted paddling each of the 47 students when they finally entered the school.

Parents of some of the youngsters were helping find and round up Davis' strays.

Someone who has that violent a temper to go on a rampage and paddle that many children at once [illegible] has to have any regard as to why he was paddling, doesn't need to be in a position to take children of these children," said angry parent Cathy Watkins.

"We don't like for situations like this to occur," said Supt. Parrish.

Davis was suspended a week without pay at a closed door meeting with Parrish and the school board. He declined to talk to the news media.

A teenage girl who was booted from the cast of a high school play still managed to get more her speaking lines by walking onstage in plain her role in unison with the girl who replaced her.

But the vengeful parents of Laurel Highlands High School in Union Town, Pa., quickly whisked 16-year-old Bobbie Jo Shimpock off to the principal's office.

The little lass lost her part in the musical. She got the axe for allegedly lying about her absence from the rehearsals.

WORLD'S HOTTEST GOSSIP

Divas Miss. visions Dolly Parton, Whitney Houston and Liza Minnelli simply shrug off the nasty gossip

WE ARE NOT GAY!

. . . say Dolly, Whitney & Liza

This outing thing is getting outrageous — in the same week three singing superstars, Dolly Parton, Whitney Houston and Liza Minnelli, have had to deal with the soul-searing question: Are you gay? Get out your celeb sex scorecards and you be the judge.

"I am not gay," the cheeky Dolly told Vanity Fair.

"I have a gay following because I love and understand gay people. My dearest friends are gay men. But I'm kinda drawn to the macho type for my lovers."

Hey, Dolly, what about your closer-than-this relationship with best friend and personal assistant Judy Ogle?

What about your 25-year shamelss marriage to mystery man Carl Dean?

"As for Judy and me, we're busy lesbians and we have also never been my lover.

"But we are so close and we live so close that I am closer to Judy than I am to Carl if we were lovers, I would not be ashamed at all," Dolly blabbed to the mag.

Rumors have been swirling over Whitney Houston's pretty buff for months about her relationship with Robyn Crawford, her close friend and executive assistant. The classy singer addressed these rumors in an 83-page article.

"Once Robyn became my lily sister, all that ended," says fretful Whitney.

And what's happened between them since then has been totally misunderstood. "I figured that since people didn't know who I was sleeping with they just assumed I was sleeping with Robyn," explains Whitney.

"Liza with a Z" is the cover story in Outweek, the lesbian and gay news mag, but Miss Minnelli played hardball with her interviewer.

"As her publicist warned," writes Matthew Rettenmund, "she refuses to take a public position on anything that may anger or alienate her fans, a slippery witch they hold absolute power in the contemporary queer scene.

A municipal worker in Pennsylvania took a day off from work, p... round of golf — and then found his boss waiting for him after 18 holes.

Ray Valenik, a buyer in Westmoreland County's purchasing department, was suspended without pay for 10 days as punishment for calling in sick and playing golf instead.

Betsy Griffis, the county director of human resources, admits she was tipped off Valenik was planning to do [illegible] spot before ...

"The golf course told me [illegible]

Miss Griffis says: "I was hoping that he was sick.

"I don't take any delight in disciplining an employee. It's my job.

"It doesn't make me happy," she says.

Valenik, in addition to his 10-day suspension, has been ordered to present a doctor's excuse for any sick days taken during the next 12 months.

Valenik could not be reached for comment.

But last year in California, where a farmers worker called in sick and, instead of golfing, went fishing, he was fired.

He had a similar run of golfing — two consecutive — but double-bogeyed when a spotter for a local TV station caught him on the links.

But it has happened in fishing, too. Valenik's boss, Miss Griffis, was fired from his job as a newspaper columnist after he was caught fishing on company time.

I'm madder than a senator with an exploding cigar that dimwit bureaucrats in Washington are still blowing our hard-earned tax dollars on all those stupid projects that egg-heads, government scientists and nutty professors dream up.

Pres Bush is doing a great job — for the most part. But when some blowhard idiot can pick 50,000 bucks from Uncle Sam's pockets to find out if American and Mexican leopard frogs are sexually compatible, Old George ought to blow his stack and fire all the twits involved with masterminding an stupid!

Let's face it, you and I work too darnn hard for our money to have it spent on such things as:

● $47,000 to find out if grey rays think can help us fix an out-of-control flush

● $17,000 to learn how many eyelashes the average person loses in one day

● $7,000 to find out whether blonde or brunette pronouns attract more customers

● $31,743 to figure out why kids in kindergarten like to fingerpaint

● $63,000 to find out if that rat stuffs that they publish in fancy Japanese restaurants will make you sick. (Damn right, it will. I could've told 'em that for free, for crying out loud.)

● $149,000 to learn why old folks like to move to Florida after they retire. (Because it's purty there, stupid!)

● $13,600 to find out if trials who patch bumper bad guys should be sentenced at half-time. (Slap the liar out of them, I say.)

● $130,000 to study how 130 different languages describe polar. (Good God Almighty! That makes me wee red!)

● $204,000 for a researcher to do a telephone survey to find out if telephone surveys work.

● $68,337 to pay for a film script on the history of the American Communist Party. (This little budget item should make TARNAVEIN see red!)

When these mining little liberal bureaucrats spend my money like that I get pop-eyed mad! It's like all this Save the Whales and Save the Manatee crap.

I've never even seen a whale, so what do I care if they're killed off for blubber and machine oil?

I can always see the point in saving the rare kids of snail darter fish. Let 'em eat up in cat food or the frying pan where they belong.

Our tax bucks ought to go for helicopters and state-of-the-art combat boots and helmets for the brave boys in our armed forces — not thrown away on some freakish professor's hobby!

A surprising 81 percent of those who responded to Ed Anger's column on Queers for a Day agreed that the old-fashioned TV tribute to homosexuals ought to be revived. Typical of the responses was this communal from a Chicago mother of three:

"Queers for a Day culminated the traditional values that made this country great. There's no job there unpatriotic. Upon having a spotless kitchen and wiping kids' noses."

We're spending a fortune to study fingerpainting and pregnant fleas!

on TV and to movies like Body Heat. And to fat ex-ministers. I didn't even know that the ugly 340-pound bloke existed until some wimp, bearded fella ringer came on the tube blathering over the stupid things.

Now Old Ed ain't going to lose a wink of sleep over whether the last specimen has brought the farm or not. In fact, they ought to sell 'emselves burgers.

And I sure as hell don't want my tax money wasted on projects like the sex life of water

Wives spill their guts in eye-opening survey

By FRED WRIGHT

Faked orgasms, raunchy bathrooms and the wishy-washy husbands are just part of the downside of marriage, according to a survey of 50,000 American wives.

The upside includes the birth of a first child, wedding day and talking to love.

An amazing 68 percent of wives responding to a questionnaire in Women's Day magazine said their husbands were more interested in sex than in making love.

Three-fifths of the fantasists say they're thinking of someone they know — not a movie star or handsome stranger. Twenty percent admit to having had a crush on someone at work and 23 percent admit to propositioning another.

More than a third of those respondents — 37 percent — said they are still old-fashioned about attitudes to the birth of a first child as the happiest moment of their lives, compared with 21 percent who pick their wedding day and 19 percent sexual workouts outside the home, and a full three-quarters said their jobs give them a positive self-esteem.

On the day the questionnaire was filled out, 57 percent said they hadn't made the beds and 41 percent still had dirty dishes in the sink among other undone chores.

In other findings 15 percent of the wives said they wear nothing in bed and 44 percent said they washed their husbands' more than aggressive lovers.

Fully half of those responding said marriage had led to Scuba diver accused of sex with a dolphin!

China's bizarre plot to knock Earth out of orbit

CHINA'S LATEST great leap upward. Threatens to knock Earth out of orbit when every one of its citizens jumps up and down September 27!

1.3 billion Chinese will jump up & down at the same time sending planet into spin Sept. 27!

By DAVE TAYLOR
Special Correspondent

If everybody in China jumped up and down at the same time they would knock our Earth out of orbit, and that's exactly what the scientists are threatening to do just three months from now, on September 27!

The synchronized jump is clearly intended ... when the Earth flies off into space China's population of 1.3 billion will fly just like the rest of us.

But the experts on Chinese affairs have their really are plotting to make good on their threat to do what had to prove that their Red Empire and its people are about to explode around the world.

Nobody knows where the idea came from, but China's communist leadership is almost certainly to blame. With the disintegration of communist governments around the world they feel that they are on the verge of really power as well.

Their dreams of conquering the planet are all but shattered and they take the position if we can't have it, nobody can.

They possess nuclear weapons but have no plans to use them because knocking the Earth out of orbit is much quicker and more dramatic.

The end will come with a whimper, not a bang. They're simply going to jump up and down.

Experts confirm that the force generated when 1.3 billion people up and down will break the Earth free of the sun's gravitational pull and send us sailing off into space like a pinball in a machine that never stops.

The logistics of such a jump are for bedding of course, but the Xinhua says Chinese authorities should be able to publicize the publication by sending orders over the country's state-controlled radio.

Not surprisingly, Chinese officials deny that any such plan is being contemplated.

But de Vries of Amsterdam claims that he has highly placed sources in Beijing and warns

"What I'm telling you is absolutely true and as much as I'd like to say otherwise, there's not a damn thing

Dear Dotti: My niece rang me for a weekend visit and stole from my husband and me. I told my sister about her daughter and now the whole family is treating me like I'm the criminal, and the girl. Nobody will even talk to me. What should I do? — Embarrassed in Baltimore

Dear Embarrassed: Your niece is the thief and you were right to say so. Tell your family to eat dirt!

Ask the Countess

Why does my dead granddad keep visiting me?

Dear Countess: What does my grandfather want me to do? He's been dead for 50 years but he appears in my dreams at least once a week and always says the same thing: "The red barn. Nine steps south, two steps east." What does this mean, Countess? Can you help? — Puzzled in Birmingham

Dear Puzzled: Your grandfather buried a fortune in gold and silver on the old family farm and he wants you to have it. Follow his instructions in the letter. You'll find the treasure at the spot he describes — nine steps south and two steps east of the old red barn!

Lee Harvey Oswald didn't kill President John F. Kennedy in 1963 and he didn't die in Dallas, either. He was poisoned by an unknown assassin on March 23, 1991 — 26 years after he saved JFK's life as a participant in one of the greatest political hoaxes ever!

"Oswald didn't take Kennedy's life — he saved it," declared Richard Volk, author of the forthcoming book: What Really Happened in Dallas — The Oswald and Kennedy Connection.

"Far from being a communist or assassin, Oswald was a superpatriot and a staunch Kennedy supporter. When the president learned that Fidel Castro and the mob were both plotting his murder in 1963, he felt that against him, that no one, not even the FBI, Secret Service and CIA, could protect him, so

"He was in on the conspiracy, too."

As the tabloid reported in August and as Volk confirms, Kennedy suffered a massive head wound in Dallas which left him slightly brain-damaged and crippled from the waist down.

So who fired the bullets that wounded Kennedy? According to Volk, the president was hit by a single bullet fired from behind the fence on the grassy knoll.

YOUR MORNING HABITS REVEAL YOUR PERSONALITY

How you behave in the morning gives clues to your personality, say two top psychologists.

"Those first few minutes of the day can tell a lot about a personality," said psychologist Dr. Robert Calmes.

Added Dr Frederick Koenig, a moral psychologist: "The first hour of the day sets the style for how you are going to behave."

Here are several of the most common early-morning personalities:

● Romeo-and-Juliet person. "You're basically an optimistic person who looks forward to each day," said Dr. Calmes. "You're cheerful and pragmatic." Added Dr. Koenig: "You feel confident about things and think problems can be solved if we all pull together."

● The everybody-get-up person. "You're practical, impartial, energetic, a no-nonsense type," said Dr. Calmes. "You like to get involved and handle things effectively and quickly," Dr Koenig said. This person feels that everyone should pull together as a duty.

● The slumber. "You mope around in your bedclothes in the morning. You don't want to think about the day ahead. You're casual and like things as they come," said Dr Calmes. Dr Koenig agrees.

● The five-more-minutes-of-sleep type. "You like creature comforts, take life in small bits and enjoy passive activities such as watching TV and sports," said Dr. Calmes. Added Dr Koenig: "You like to take it easy and would feel better if everybody took it easy, too."

● The don't-talk-to-me-until-I've-had-my-second-cup-of-coffee type. "You're a self-sufficient, self-reliant person who craves privacy," said Dr Calmes.

● The dasher, the pique down his collar. "You pop up energetic and take on a lot of extra activities and you get the job done," said Dr Calmes. "You're always on the run," said Dr Koenig.

● The early-morning exercise. "You're thorough, determined and healthy in hard work and self-discipline," said Dr. Calmes. Added Dr Koenig: "You're always trying to meet a challenge."

A 30-year-old guilty conscience inspired one British beer drinker to pay a brewery £80 pounds ($170).

INTRAVENOUS CABLE TV!

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — A neurologist specializing in brain wave manipulation says he has perfected an astounding new entertainment vehicle: Intravenous cable television.

The researcher hooks subjects directly to a specially modified cable connector box and pipes television signals straight to their brains. He says the device delivers an astonishingly sharp picture and beautiful sound in a more absorbing, relaxing way than regular television.

to use the intravenous television in a special laboratory setting. But in the future we hope to refine the device and make it available to the average consumer," Dr. Lander said. "We will make it portable, so that TV viewers can carry it anywhere with them and watch television to their heart's content."

HOW TO SNAP A PAL OUT OF A BAD MOOD

When a friend gets in a foul mood, you can help him bounce back by following a few simple tips, a psychiatrist says.

"If you see someone in a bad mood and you want to help him snap out of it, try playing psychiatrist," said Dr Jack Cleveland.

The New York expert offered the following helpful suggestions for bringing someone you care about out of the doldrums.

● Find out what caused the bad mood. Ask your friend what happened to put him in such a state.

If he says, "Oh, it was nothing" or "Don't bother me," be persistent. Sooner or later he'll talk about the problem.

● Be sympathetic. If your friend says he had a disagreement with his wife or boss, say something like, "That could happen to anyone — don't let an argument get you down."

● Encourage your friend to talk. Ask questions that will help him "get it all out."

● Make straightforward suggestions. If you really think it'll help, suggest that your friend try to talk it out with his boss or wife. But make your suggestions sparingly.

● Be understanding. Even if your friend gets angry while he's telling you about his bad mood be sympathetic, understanding and convincing. Being harsh and making accusations won't help.

● Change the scene. If your friend doesn't seem to want to talk about what he is, suggest a change of scenery.

Ask him to take a walk with you or suggest going for lunch or a drink together.

● Assure your friend that there is a solution to his problem. If the two of you can't arrive at a solution suggest talking to a third party — perhaps another friend, a co-worker or a helpful relative.

● Distract your friend. One way is to suggest that he do something physical — some kind of exercise. This will help your friend get his mind off his problem.

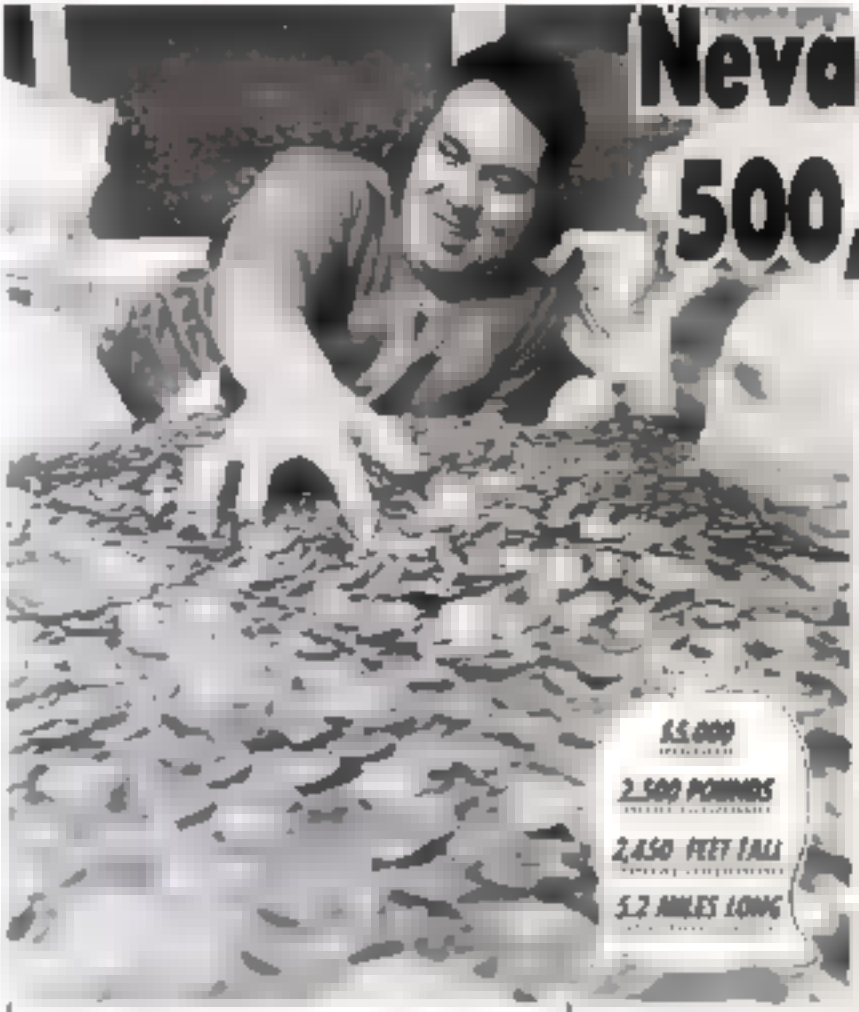
Town officials in Simsbury, Conn., treated an old oil painting like dirt until they found out it was a major work of art worth nearly a million bucks!

The 1855 oil painting by John Frederick Kensett was hanging over a rarely visited room in a municipal building when art expert Jeffrey Cheney spotted it and told officials it was worth at least $500,000.

The painting of Niagara Falls was sold by Christie's auction house in New York City for a cool $800,000.

Nevada man saves 500,000 pennies



They called John Figoni the Penny Man of Reno, Nev., and for good reason: He collected 500,000 of those little copper coins!

Figoni has been saving pennies for 22 years — since he was 8

And just recently Figoni took his half-million pennies — with the help of a local armored car service — to the bank. There were bags and bags of pennies. More than a ton of pennies!

Figoni says he plans to take his stash of coins with the $5,000 cash he expects for his pile of pennies. He wants to go to the Bahamas.

Counting all of those pennies took its toll on Figoni. His fingers turned black. His eyes started to glaze. His wrist ached. "It seems like you count for days," he said.

All of this started when

By LOU PACKER

Figoni's mom bought him a piggy bank — the kind with holes on it. Figoni put his first penny in the first hole. Then he found another penny and another and another.

That many pennies — 500,000 of them — really add up. When stacked, they reach up to 2,450 feet in the sky — nearly half a mile!

End-to-end, they stretch out to more than five miles!

And weighed on a scale, 500,000 pennies are equal to about 2,500 pounds — the weight of a good-sized hippo (minus!

NO'S MAKING CENTS: John Figoni counts his coins before heading them off to the bank in cash. 10 myths that can wreck a marriage

By JEAN MEIT

Here are 10 myths that can ruin a marriage or make a bad one worse, according to an expert.

MYTH 1 — Husbands and wives should always be best friends.

FACT — Best friends are almost always of the same sex. No matter how close a married couple are, men tend to relate best to men, and women get along better with other women.

MYTH 2 — Marriage can fulfill all your dreams.

FACT — Not always. People should not marry merely for the sake of marriage until because the relationship they lack joy, kindness and love — leaving them miserable.

MYTH 3 — Husbands and wives should do everything together.

FACT — It's often best for males to pursue many separate interests. There's no reason why a husband should be made to go to the ballet, or a wife should be forced to watch football.

MYTH 4 — Good husbands do household repairs, good wives do laundry.

FACT — Not necessarily. Rather than fight over who should do certain chores, determine who's best for one task to break the traditional sexual barrier and do his or her own job.

MYTH 5 — Having a child will improve a bad marriage.

FACT — No, it won't. All the hard work of caring for the child will further weaken the marriage. A child will only strengthen a marriage if it's already a good relationship.

MYTH 6 — Marriage should be a 50-50 partnership.

FACT — Make shouldn't keep score. Some people will naturally give more than others in a marriage, and worry over giving too much or too little can take heat out of the relationship.

MYTH 7 — Exciting, romantic love makes a good marriage.

FACT — Passionate love burns out very quickly — but warm, affectionate married love will bring you thrilling, lasting and exciting.

MYTH 8 — An unhappy marriage is better than a broken home.

FACT — Children of a mismatched couple often say they'd prefer the relative peace and quiet that follows a divorce. If a couple is unhappy, they shouldn't stay together just "for the children's sake."

MYTH 9 — Competition between spouses adds sparkle to a marriage.

FACT — Competition often leads to open hostility.

MYTH 10 — Don't have sex when you're angry.

FACT — Making love while angry can help clear the air.

U.S. has new secret weapon for the war on dope . . .

TRAINED WHALES DESTROY DRUG BOATS!

By MICKEY McGUIRE

America is using a bizarre but effective new weapon in the war against dope smugglers — a team of highly trained whales that ram and sink their drug-loaded boats on command!

So far the team of six computer-guided male sperm whales has sent more than 100 boats to the bottom, along with their illegal cargoes of cocaine and marijuana worth untold millions of dollars.

"And that's just in the first five weeks that the search and destroy operation has been underway," declared an agent of the special task force that trained the small but deadly armada of 70-foot, 60-ton monsters of the deep. They're deployed now in the Caribbean [illegible] "and we haven't even scratched the surface yet. But another half-dozen trained and radio-equipped sperms will be entering the area before the end of the year."

The sperm is the largest of the toothed species of whales [illegible]

How to get ahead in your office family

By STEVIE DeSALVO
Entrepreneur

The role you play in your "office family" can affect your on-the-job success, says an expert.

"The average company is like a family and we all tend to act out family-like roles at work," declared author Robert Kriegel.

"To get ahead, it's important to recognize the part you're playing and be aware of its risks."

Kriegel, author of the book The Future Fast Performance Is Our Present, says you can play your role to help you get ahead on the job, according to Kriegel, coauthor of the book. The risks, he says, are:

THE FAVORITE CHILD — You're the "fair-haired" boy or girl being groomed to take over when the boss retires. Your chances for advancement look excellent, but you'll have to work long hours and may be stepping on a few toes.

THE GOOD KID — Super-agreeable, the "good kid" never questions or criticizes, politely obeys and always does what he's told. He thinks that by not making waves he'll advance his career.

But he may be taking himself out of the running for advancement, because the executives above don't always agree.

When you have a better idea, speak up.

THE SCAPEGOAT AND LAUGHING STOCK — He doesn't like anyone, and they like him the same way. Unable to be a strong leader, unsure and has an anxious nature.

He tends to blame his shortcomings on others. Your chance for advancement look dim, but you'll have to hang on a long time to "grow up."

BIG BROTHER OR BIG SISTER — The employee takes a personal interest in co-workers, guiding them, helping them. But his boss may think he's too personally involved with other workers to be given supervisory responsibilities.

To get ahead he should cut down on his socializing and do his job with less interest in co-workers.

JUST ONE OF THE GUYS — These workers are rarely noticed.

Though they are reliable, punctual and feel they are doing a good job, they just don't get the recognition they deserve.

To really get ahead at this office, they should polish their skills and work toward making themselves indispensable.

Walking skeleton turns into dazzling model!

MAN OF FAT Here's Newspaper Catherine finds N depth

BEAUTIFULLY BUILT Catherine Furey is now a successful photo model.

By SUSAN JAMISON
Staff writer

Desperate dieting left Catherine Furey weighing 52 pounds and brought her to the brink of death, but the anorexia victim is healthy now — and has made a career for herself as a curvy model!

. . . from a sickly 52 lbs. to curvy beauty!

The 24-year-old from Sunderland, England, starved herself so severely she was actually given the last rites by a Catholic priest. She says it was only when she realized how much her family would suffer over her death that she found the will to eat again — and survive.

"Life is too precious to waste it on this terrible illness," blue-eyed Catherine says now. "I'm proud that I took on anorexia — and won."

Catherine's deadly dieting began when she was a teenager and friends taunted her about her weight. She was a chubby 168 pounds and often published diets confuse and ready. One day she saw some photos of herself looking overweight and her mood snapped.

"I was standing in our kitchen at home and I just started screaming. 'I'm fat, I'm fat!' she recalled. "I was totally hysterical.

"I knew that I was starved eating. I would tell her mum I'd had a big meal at school, when all I'd really had was a piece of fruit."

Over the next few months, Catherine dropped from 168 pounds to 108. She became a recluse. Although she was happy neither to hide her scrawny body, her parents eventually discovered what was happening and took her to psychologists.

But therapy didn't help. Catherine couldn't eat — and didn't want to eat. In spite of therapy, she dropped to 96 pounds, then to 70, then to 60.

When she was hospitalized for treatment, she weighed only 52 pounds.

And still she would not eat.

"I knew my body looked awful," she recalled. "But I was still terrified that if I ate anything I'd get fat again."

As she lingered near death, Catherine became aware that she was surrounded by love. Her parents prayed at her bedside, her sisters read Scripture to her, and her brother Stephen, who was very good at frying, [illegible] I'd had a big meal at school, when all I'd really had was a piece of fruit."

"Slowly, surely I lost my fear of food. It became my friend again — but the years that almost killed me."

Today, six years later, Catherine is a beautiful young woman who works as a photo model.

She loves food, eats three meals a day and weighs a healthy 120 pounds.

This man has the world's highest IQ

Super-brain Christopher Harding is one of only five people listed in the Guinness Book of World Records under "Highest IQ" — but he hasn't worked in years, and his last jobs were sorting mail, washing cars and dumping trash!

. . . and he's a jobless janitor!

What's more, the 167 IQ genius who never lived to roll high in school entertainers for a living.

"I could have to classify myself as a misfit, a loner in modern-day society," admits the 47-year-old bachelor — who's so almost-crowded he sometimes forgets to wash his dishes or even eat.

While the rest of the world is caught up in the day-to-day business of living, Harding's mind is existing in a far-off world of abstract concepts and advanced math theorems.

The only hint of it's unseen he watches a lot computers on Saturday morning days on end formulating complex projects.

The sky grows dim at his parents' home in Rochester. Apartments like windows overlook far from there.

"I don't like to talk about growing up — it's too painful," said Harding, who was speaking in complete sentences at 10 months. "Socially, I was a loner — a complete loner. I wanted to kill. I was always reading or my work. My mind was always busy, thinking out problems. I'd withdraw into my own world.

"When I graduated from high school I couldn't face people, so I narrowly I worked myself as a priest. But I quit the career people tried to force me into friendships. Then I got a job in a college library, retrieving borrowed books to their shelves. I was there for 11 years. After a staff cutback, I was moved to the mail room.

"Later, I was moved to an odd-job role, washing cars and emptying trash cans. I'd shuffle along, and everyone was nice to me, but my whole being was thinking and working things out.

"About five years ago I quit. Now I spend my time with my computer, reading or just thinking. Sometimes the cops stop me as I stroll around the neighborhood late at night. They think I'm a vagrant in my rumpled clothes."

Harding is totally wrapped up in creating two new computer programs — one to predict stock market trends and the other to forecast weather years in advance.

"At last, I'm doing what I want," he says happily.

Expert explodes the log cabin myth

No U.S. president was born in poverty

PRESIDENT ABRAHAM LINCOLN was born in this log cabin, but he did not grow up among the area's other backwoodsmen.

By THOMAS KIEL
Special Correspondent

Contrary to popular myth, none of our presidents rose from poverty to power, says a university professor.

Like George Bush who grew up in affluent Greenwich, Conn., and whose father eventually became the managing partner of a Wall Street firm, most of them came from well-to-do families, declared Dr. Edward Pessen, author of the book The Log Cabin Myth.

Abraham Lincoln, for example, is often portrayed as growing up in dire poverty.

But when Abe was born, his father owned two 400-acre farms and several town lots.

And by the time Abe was 9 his family was among "the richest 15 percent of property owners in his community."

Only a few presidents rather than the middle class or below, including Reagan, Eisenhower, Hoover, Fillmore, Garfield and Andrew Johnson, said Dr. Pessen.

Reagan's family was middle class. His father was in charge of a public works program in Illinois, and for a time also part owner of a hotel and store there.

Eisenhower's father was a mechanic and the company manager.

Nixon's father owned a lemon grove and later opened a combination gas station and grocery.

Fillmore's father was a New York farmer.

Garfield's father was a farmer and canal contractor.

Andrew Johnson and his family have stood hard work. His father labored as a porter, constable and parker, and Andrew was apprenticed to a tailor at age 14.

Not a single American president came from an impoverished family.

RETIRE IN MEXICO FOR $16 A DAY

(Special) Publisher Mort Paron announced release of the new edition of Paradise Found: How to Live in North America's Best Climate for Under $500 a Month. The book reveals how over 29,000 Americans live the good life on a beautiful, 40-mile long lake nestled safely in the mountains of Mexico. Many enjoy the sublime warmth

Question: Where is this paradise located?

Answer: It's simple to get there. You can leave from any one of five major cities in the U.S. By car it's just a few hours' drive.

Question: Why do so many Americans live there?

Answer: The climate is near perfect year round. It's often called the world's best. Senior citizens are attracted to it's use of the cheapest places to live in the entire world. Many people live comfortably on social security and small pensions.

Question: Besides the near perfect climate and low cost of living, what else draws Americans there?

Answer: The sheer beauty of the place. You're in a magnificent lake 90 miles long, ringed by the mountains. You'll breathe fresh, clean, unpolluted air. You'll see stunning colors. Red bougainvillea, rust and yellow flowers.

I have traveled throughout Europe, the Caribbean and Hawaii and never have I seen such an enchanting place. That's why I call the book Paradise Found. It's the closest thing to Paradise you'll ever find.

Question: How do the local people treat American tourists?

Answer: You'll be amazed with warmth and kindness. They love Americans. We provide some of the jobs for the needy people. You can have a maid, gardener or cook for about $30 a week. And you'll be paying more than the going wages.

Question: Do Americans get homesick?

Answer: Not at all. You have an American library, theater, medical care, American style shopping facilities, and many social activities. Best of all, you'll be living in one of the world's best climates for a fraction of your present living costs.

Question: What else does the book reveal about the Paradise?

Answer: The book explains everything you need to know. How to get there, what to take, where to live, what to do. You'll discover how we live in luxury in relaxing peace. How to save extra money.

Whether you're looking for a place to retire, a low cost vacation spot or somewhere to get away from it all, this place has something for you.

Question: Sounds like you've really hit on something here. How can readers get a copy of Paradise Found?

Answer: You can order direct from the publisher and save. Send only $17.95 plus $1 postage and handling to: United Research Publishers 249 So. Highway 101, Dept. Solana Beach, CA 92075. Or call toll free 1-800-854-3344 ext. 333. Your book will be shipped by return mail. Your satisfaction is guaranteed or your money back.

How much sleep you need reveals your personality

People who need more than the average eight hours of sleep a night are strikingly different from those who require less than eight hours, an expert says.

People who need less than eight hours of sleep tend to be efficient, energetic optimists and love life to the fullest. They're probably success-oriented and relish the challenges of moving up the corporate ladder," Dr. Frederick Koenig said.

People who sleep more than eight hours on the other hand tend to be extrospective. Although creative, they seem unsure of themselves, their career choices and their life-styles, Dr. Koenig said.

"Anxiety is a common trait among these people and they often overeat to build up

Start a new career as an ELECTRICIAN!

GIANT HOROSCOPE

By Countess Sophia Saheb

Mon., July 1 — Sun., July 7

ARIES
Mar. 21-Apr. 19

A change is in the wind this week.

Keep your mind open so that a new lifestyle won't throw you. A wild, wonderful — and challenging — opportunity should be heading your way. Get ready for it.

A casual remark could lead to some extra cash — handle this bonanza carefully.

If romance has been on the back burner for a while, things could start heating up. You can call the shots — if you want to.

TAURUS
Apr. 20-May 20

Hold it! Don't splurge on that big home item you've been eyeing. If you wait awhile, someone may just give you what you've been hanging for.

Take this week to do chores, and help friends and family. Short quiet drives will set the scene in the mind when you need a helping hand.

Romance is worth a second look now. If you and your loved one aren't on the same wavelength, it's time to do something to turn things around so that you're happy again.

GEMINI
May 21-June 20

Happiness is on its way!

The week ahead should hold joyful surprises. They'll all be yours if you think not fortunes carefully. Don't let yourself be swayed by people with bad advice.

Financial doors are due to open soon.

An opportunity to promote one of your ideas should make you pleased as punch.

Don't settle for a routine relationship. Create some exciting moments.

CANCER
June 21-July 22

Have you been feeling edgy? That strange feeling should vanish when you realize that someone's been trying to rearrange your life. Tell them where to get off. They're doing more on your own.

This week you may have to choose between play and chores. Put off the work if you can and take time out for some fun.

You should be lucky in money matters. Everything should work out in your favor.

LEO
July 23-Aug. 22

Don't take any advice at all this week.

Make up your own mind in all matters. Gags and small favors always help, but it's be different now.

Love should be all around you, and you should have especially warm relations with those closest to you.

Put attention to what comes in and goes out of your pocket this week. Taking alert to expenditures may help you avoid all a cash shortage.

VIRGO
Aug. 23-Sept. 22

A bit of loving help is on the way for you.

Someone should offer you a hand this week and lighten your load considerably.

A sudden change of plans could irritate you this week, but generally speaking, day events you set your heart on now should live up to all their expectations.

A long-range money goal should be within reach at last.

Things will work out.

LIBRA
Sept. 23-Oct. 22

You're looking good this week.

Romance should blossom because when you act like the "real you," you're irresistible. Take advantage of all your charm and personality to win over the one you love.

Don't be afraid to make the first move in a financial situation. Others should respect your decisions. A little organization and a lot of effort should get you just what you want.

A persistent problem in a problem could be possible this week.

It should be hard to find a better week than this one.

If you have the courage to follow a creative urge, there could be a big change — and one that you should like — in your life.

Try to be objective and keep your priorities in order. You could be a bit distant now.

A persistent problem should prevail in your home life. If you don't feel your feelings every time, you should never have any problems.

How to tell if your husband's an idiot

By SUSAN JIMISON
Staff writer

If your hubby's useless on the home front, it may not be his fault, an expert says — it may be that he's just plain stupid!

Sociologist Alberto Moreno says a surprising number of males cannot comprehend the labels on ordinary household cleaners and laundry products. They cannot understand how to read recipes or cook even the most basic meals. And simple mathematics at the market is beyond their mental powers.

"Too many wives perceive their menfolk of being lazy when what's really going on is that they're mental midgets," says Dr Moreno who lives in Madrid, Spain.

"I think if women understand that, they'd get along better with their mates."

Dr. Moreno based his conclusions on two years of interviews with more than 500 married men. Tests revealed that 61 percent of the men were so dumb they were incapable of doing household chores.

He agreed to share some of his test questions with anyone so they can quiz their own husbands who most likely or more of the questions before would be hopeless housewives, Dr Moreno says, because they're too stupid.

FOUR out of 10 men cannot perform simple household chores, says one expert.

Bizarre Chinese custom lets single folks get married after they kick the bucket!

The Chinese are reviving an old custom that says if you die single, you can enter heaven married.

The beyond-the-grave weddings are supposed to guarantee that nobody enters the afterlife alone. This way, a 78-year-old man can marry a 6-month-old baby, or a young man can marry an old woman.

In a recent case, a 65-year-old man was praised by his fellow villagers for selling all his life savings worth $587 to buy a female corpse. When he died, the two will be "married" with a full ceremony and be buried together, a news report says.

In another case, the parents of a 10-year-old girl refused to auction off her corpse to the family of a prospective groom even though they were offered $1,000. The parents said they wanted their daughter to be buried in her own country.

Barefoot, pregnant sisters tie knot in shotgun wedding

When Tanya, Toni and Trina were married, all three sisters were pregnant!

And there was Dad with his shotgun, watching over the triple ceremony!

The three Ottumwa, Iowa, couples — Tanya and Bill Bartle, Toni and Randy Behr and Trina and Keith Archer — decided to make the day a family occasion.

In the lighthearted spirit of the event, the three brides got married without any shoes. "Too expensive, they said. And Dad — retired Police Sgt. Donald McAllister — agreed to pose with the three couples while holding his unloaded shotgun.

Shoes too expensive, say Iowa threesome

"It saved us a lot of money," explained Toni Behr, "so we got married on the same day. And the shoes cost too much so we were barefoot for the ceremony."

The bride-to-be asked Dad to carry his shotgun down the aisle as he gave away his three daughters.

But some neighbors have said the brides were making fun of traditional wedding dings. "We felt it would be kinda neat, plain and simple," explains Toni Behr.

Tanya is due August 3.

Trina is due October 18.

Tanya is due November 11.

Real-life Goldilocks

By KALI TOPPENIN

Eero Salinen arrived in town to visit his uncle, found the door key under the mat and made himself at home — in the wrong house.

"This big old guy was standing there when I woke up later wanting to know who the hell I was and what I was doing sleeping on his couch," Salinen told cops in Tampere, Finland.

A cab driver apparently had dropped Salinen off at the wrong house, which was two doors away from where his aunt and uncle lived.

"My uncle said they would leave a key under the doormat, so naturally when I found a key I figured I was at the right house," Salinen said.

Fortunately, the second homeowner knew Salinen's uncle.

CHICAGO MOM IS SPACE ALIEN — FROM

CHICAGO SPACE ALIEN Simone Dove says the leaders of Venus sent her to Earth to teach humans about the brotherhood of planets.

Woman landed on Earth back in 1955 — as a 7-year-old child!

By SUSAN JIMISON
Staff writer

Blonde mother of three Omner Oner looks like a perfectly normal human being, but she isn't human at all — she's a space alien from Venus!

The petite Chicago woman says she was born 248 Earth years ago in the city of Teutonia on Venus. She lived as a disembodied spirit on her native planet until she was sent to Earth disguised as a 7-year-old human child in 1950.

"On Venus, colors are more rich and more abundant," recalls the space creature, who has written a book about her experiences called From Venus I Came. "Our sky is iridescent, a sea of ever-changing colors.

"The weather on my home planet is controlled by the collective thoughts of its people.

"In our neighborhood homes looked like weird bubbles sitting atop each other. Every single home was unique and beautiful. And I cannot remember seeing a house in Teutonia that was not surrounded by lush, flowering gardens.

Omner says she left her paradise planet to live as an earthling after Venusian leaders chose her to learn human beings about the brotherhood of mankind.

After months of training on Venus she was taken by spacecraft to a secret monastery in Tibet where monks helped her adapt to life on Earth.

"On Venus I had existed like with a physical body, but had become so spiritually advanced that I lived on an astral plane, not a physical level. So at first, having a physical body again was like being in a suit of armor," said Omner, whose Earth body is now 43 years old.

"I bumped into things. I got hungry. It was very different. While I was with the monks I learned to eat and digest food. I learned to control my muscles and learned to speak properly.

"I learned to do everything with grace."

When her education was complete, Omner was introduced into an American family who replaced a 7-year-old child who died in a bus wreck with her parents arriving in Tennessee in five with relatives who had never met her before. Since then she has lived as a normal human, marrying twice and bearing three children.

She has worked as a barmaid, a dancer, a clothes designer and a waitress. But she accomplished her mission by wearing her mask and she always remembers her extraterrestrial origins, she says.

"I look like people here on Earth, but my skin texture is a little bit different, my digestive system works faster, my heart rate is faster and I carry children about six weeks longer," the space alien says. "I have two bony structures on my head under my hair and my hands are shaped different, like a flame — both characteristics of the Venusian people.

"I hope it's not a disappointment that I don't look really strange or different in person.

"I hope it will be an inspiration. I learn a lot from human beings and I find them fascinating. That's how saving that's really wonderful about being here."

Isabelle Martin:

"Here are the 19 foods that cause you to lose weight..."

Everyone who has tried them has lost weight. Proven results.

LOSE WEIGHT! An Amazing Discovery: Negative Calories Now you can lose weight easily, even if you eat too much...

Nutritionists have discovered that certain foods cause you to lose weight. There are foods with negative calories. The more you eat, the more weight you lose.

By a "Weight-Loss Advisory" that you can receive without obligation, you will discover more about what these foods are, why they cause you to lose weight, and how.

QUESTION: How can certain foods cause you to lose weight?

ANSWER: Scientific tests have shown that 19 particularly healthful and delicious foods (each of which are vegetables and fruits) have more calories than they contain. So the more you eat, the more you lose, not gain, weight. These foods (with negative calories) go right through you and out.

Q: How is this possible?

A: The process of negative calorie foods is complex (so I'll not even attempt to explain it to you unless you understand how your body accumulates fat.

You are born with a certain number of "calorie" cells. These calorie cells store fat and originally when you ate you lost much weight. As soon as your metabolism slows down, the calorie, unburned fat-laden foods in the stomach are fat. The fat is stored.

Therefore, you cannot lose weight by skipping the fat from the cells.

The only way to do this is deep negative calorie foods that are rich in fat (allowing) stored in cells using foods with negative calories that burn off the fat and draw it from your cells.

Obviously, it is the best method that is the one most the easiest because it requires no effort, no deprivation.

Q: How many pounds can you lose per week?

A: It you are up to 20 pounds overweight, you lose an average of five to ten pounds in the first week, and three to four pounds (or heavier) weeks.

If you are very close 20 pounds overweight, you will lose weight more quickly. Some people with more than 50 pounds to lose have lost up to 15 pounds in the first week.

Q: Do you have to follow some sort of special diet? Do you get a guarantee of results program, calorie foods in your normal diet?

A: You don't have to follow any diet, or change anything in your lifestyle. You can eat practically anything you want during your week.

The only thing you have to do is add negative calorie foods to your meals and watch your pounds and inches go dropping.

Q: How many negative calorie foods do I have to add to my normal diet?

A: Just eight (19) of your normal diet. But you can eat as much as you want because the more negative calorie foods you eat the more weight you lose weight.

Q: Instead of adding these negative calorie foods, can I just replace 20% of my normal diet with them?

A: Yes, because that is not really important. The only thing that is important is to absorb at least 15% of negative calorie foods to see these are the ones that burn off the excess fat and cause you to lose weight.

Q: Will it be easy for me to maintain my ideal weight after losing my excess pounds?

A: Many people who lose weight with diets or pills or other methods quickly gain back no weight once they stop.

But with negative calorie foods, it is different. The only thing you have to do is keep these 19 or add negative calorie foods to your normal diet.

Q: What are these negative calorie foods called? Where can you get them?

A: All these negative calorie foods are ordinary foods. There are 19 of them. Among them are fruits, vegetables and other natural foods that you will find in any supermarket or in your garden.

Q: Is there any proof that pounds have used negative calorie foods and have an ugly fast weight?

A: Everyone who has added negative calorie foods to their normal diet has lost weight. Those who were overweight have lost more than those who were underweight.

"I had tried everything..."

"I have lost 71 pounds. All my life I have suffered from being fat and I had tried everything to lose weight. The negative calorie foods are the only ones that have ever worked for me. I lost my weight in a very certain. My husband also lost 21 pounds. We are delighted to have rediscovered the joy of life that we had long since lost."

Mrs. Claudine L.

I am a Doctor confirm that it works!

Dear Isabelle Martin:

I have had the privilege of evaluating your negative calorie dietary program.

Your program is very sound. In fact that I believe it is the most nutritional program I've ever seen."

"I thought I would be fat all my life..."

"I have struggled all my life with my weight. I have tried many diets but I've never lost weight. Now I have discovered negative calories. I lost 25 pounds in two short weeks and a total of 38 pounds since you first sent me your plan. I thought I would be fat all my life. My husband tells me I look like a model. I can't believe that I ever was fat."

Mrs. Sharon L.

Q: Does your program require special calorie foods, or can I only use those foods in your normal diet?

A: Yes, negative calorie foods are available in supermarkets, health food stores and other stores. Some of the negative calorie foods in your normal diet are: grapefruit, celery, lettuce, cabbage, apples, oranges, etc.

Q: What are other negative calorie foods
